

This illustration highlights the Moon's Clavius Crater with an illustration depicting water trapped in the lunar soil there (Image: NASA/Daniel Rutter)

US space agency NASA recently made an announcement when it told the world that the SOFIA has confirmed, for the first time, water on the sunlit surface of the Moon. What happened next?

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) of the US recently made a bombshell announcement on October 26, when it told the world that the Stratospheric Observatory for Infrared Astronomy (SOFIA)

